

Young Professionals (YP) Programme

Organised by Enterprise Singapore under the Singapore Standardisation Programme

Executive Summary

Why are standards important for the challenges faced by Singapore’s services, trade, and logistics industries? How can you as a young professional influence the drafting of such standards and further your professional growth?

Learn how national and international standards are developed and how they play a role in industrial transformation to bring about innovation, sustainability and advancement of our services, trade, and logistics industries.

Join us in this programme specially geared towards cultivating the next generation of young professionals in standards development (aged 40 and below).
